Her Alleged Miraculous Gifts of Speech and Writing-Faith of Her Followers.

Testimony of People Who Profess to Have Witnessed the Exercise of Her Healing Power.

Philadelphia special: Right in the midst of this great city there has existed unnoticed for over thirty years a congregation of religious fanatics. Their belief is the more remarkable because of their intelligence and thrift. All of them are more or ess engaged in active business. To the outside world they have failed to exhibit any of the signs which would cause them to be classed among the peculiar or eccentric. These people have actually wor-shipped, as the Holy Ghost, a Swiss woman, some sixty years old and unmarried, shipped, as the Holy Ghost, a Swiss woman, some sixty years old and unmarried, whose name was Anna Meister.

In 1856 they began this species of idola try. From that time on to her death in 1883 they surrounded her with every comfort and followed her teachings and precepts with unswerving faith and devotion. She was them the third person in the Trinity, the spirit of God, and they gave her the name of "J. Elimar Mira Mitta—the daughter of the great Jehovah." A house was purchased for her in this high-sounding name at 1128 South Eleventh avenue in 1864. The front part of the second story was fitted up with an altar, pulpit and all the paraphernalia suitable for an imposing religious service. Ceremonies were held every Sunday. The "Daughter of God," surmounted with a crown studded with brilliants and encircled with a girdle sparkling with gems, preached her religion to her abject followers. Her teachings and sermons were delivered by her while under the influence of a "trance." It was the veritable belief that the Holy Ghost had sought lodging in her earthly body and through her spoke the inspired words. By the mere passing of her hands over a table sacred writings would appear upon it. Angels bearing scrolls inscribed with golden letters, commanding her worship as the Holy Ghost, could appear readily at her command.

Anna Meister was born at Shaffhausen, command.

Anna Meister was born at Shaffhausen, Switzerland, and came to this city shortly before 1855, when she started her religious sect. Members of her sect purchased the property for her. When she died she left no will, and the congregation brought suit to prevent the property from going to her relatives. The testimony on behalf of the congregation has all been submitted, and the great faith of the witnesses in Mira Mitta and her teachings cannot be better evidenced than by giving extracts from their statements.

Lissette Munzert, who was a part of Mira Mitta's household and attended to her wants, in speaking of her teaching, says: "I think the Lord formed the congregation. She was brought to us and it was shown from the Lord that we had to take care of her. I believe she was the third person of the Holy Trinity." This old lady then went on to say that Mira Mitta conid do more than any person on earth, and that by merely placing her hands on sickly persons she brought them back to health. She recited a remarkable instance, to the effect that on one occasion Anna Meister in the presence of Mrs. Munzert's mother, had brought before her a very sick woman whose complaint had puzzled the medical faculty. Mira Mitta had passed her hand over the eyes of old Mrs. Munzert, and then over the body of the sick woman. The astonishing result was that old Mrs. Munzert had exposed before her gaze the whole internal organism of the sick woman, and it could readily be seen that the cause of complaint was an affection of the heart. Proper treatment was resorted to, and the prostrated woman quickly recovered.

Mrs. Caroline Lang said that an angel appeared at the meeting of the congrega-

Proper treatment was resorted to, and the prostrated woman quickly recovered.

Mrs. Caroline Lang said that an angel appeared at the meeting of the congregation on Ridge avenue in 1856. She was present at the time and witnessed the vision. It was in the day time. The angel bore a scroli on which was written in goiden letters that Mira Mitta is the daughter of Jehovah ap. the sister of the Saviour.

Mrs. Lang was the subject of many angelic visions. When, upon being interrogated rather closely by Lawyer Staake, ās to whether she saw them with her eyes open or shut, she answered: "Yes, sir. I will see, and I will testify before the Great Lord Almighty that you will see what I testify here, and maybe in a short time. For Christ's coming is near at hand, and look out what you are doing in this case. There is no fun in it."

Mrs. Julia Rutman, a produce vender in one of Philadelphia's markets, stated that she was sure Mira Mitta was the Holy Ghost, and that fact had been revealed to her in a vision one day about dinner time. She looked out of the window of her home at Fifteenth and Parrish streets, and saw, shining clear and bright in the heavens, three figures. Two of them were those of men and the third was a woman, the exact image of Mira Mitta. Mrs. Munzert was asked by Lawyer Staske: "Do you believe that she, being the Holy Ghost, is really dead, as I would be dead after I died, or that she may return at any moment?"

"If it is her will," was the answer, "to return, she can return at any moment."

Mr. Yost, who is no longer a member of the congregation, and that he knew of one members would deprive themselves of the necessaries of life so that they could contribute to the support of the congregation, and that he knew of one member who, on account of her liberality, suffered for the want of coal in the winter.

The mass of testimony taken in this case will shortly be read in court. The extracts given are but a few of the startling revelations made by the witnesses.

LIFE'S SPAN LENGTHENING.

The Average Duration of Human Existence

Gradually Extending.

New York Sun: The mean age of the members of the Sacred College is about 80, and yet not one of the cardinals displays any of the mental falterings which are supposed to be incident to such advanced years, and to preclude, save in exceptional cases a continuance of usefulness and activity in the discharge of their public functions. It might be supposed. perhaps, that there is something in the Itailian method of life which tends to prolong activity beyond the average limit in other countries. But the fact is that Italy is not particularly favored in this respect. Taking the whole number of Italians, the percentage of those over 60 is just 7, against 7.7 in Germany, 7.8 in Sweden, 8 in England, 8.7 in Brazil, 9.9 in Belgium and 12 in

The life insurance companies have made
The life insurance companies have made The life insurance companies have made of the question of longevity almost a determined science, with an ample array of figures and rules. According to these the average man who has reached the age of 60 has still a little less, and the average woman who has reached the age of 60 a little more, than fourteen years to live. But the expectation of life does not relatively diminish with the advance of years, for at 80 the man's chance is somewhat less and the weman's somewhat more than five years and a haif. According to the English standards the persons who live longest are members of the clergy, while in other pursuits longevity ranks in the following order: Farmers, merchants, soldiers, clerks, teachers and physicians. The death rate among the clergy of the established church of England is exceptionally low, being, in the years of active clerical service, only ten in one thousand of population, whereas that of the English Catholic clergy is 58 per cent. higher.

The figures of the insurance companies, which are ample regarding every point involved, show that, the age of 50 past, the expectation of life is more than twice as great for the temperate as for the inebriate the proportion being as seven to three. The proportion of the rich as compared with the poor, over 70, is about four to one, and it is generally higher among women than among men.

The nervous, exciting, restless life of The nervous, exciting, restless life of most Americans is not conducive to extreme longevity, and the steadily large immigration of those who have reached the years of manhood in other lands as emigrants tends to greatly reduce the standard of longevity in this country; but the tables of American insurance companies show that it is steadily rising. Should this increase continue, it may not be many years before the rate here will compare favorably with what long experience and repeated proof have shown to be the normal rate in other lands.

MOSES W. FIELD'S DOUBLE LIFE.

The Late Great Greenbacker's Widow Brings Suits that Create a Sensation. Detroit special: The widow of the late Moses W. Field, the great greenbacker, and Mrs. Alice Woodbridge, his daughter, have created a sensation by causing a bill in chancery to be filed in the Wayne circuit court against Mrs. Mary Goring and her husband, John Goring. During Field's lifetime he sometimes appeared at the theatre with the Gorings, and there had latterly been more or less scandal about him and them. The bill filed by the widow and daughter sets up that the Gorings hold Mr. Field's note for $20,000; that they also hold a check on the American Exchange bank of this city for $1,210, an assignment of a $10,000 policy in the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance company upon the life of Mr. Field, and several other notes and obligations of at present unknown amounts. The bill charges that Mary Goring, by various arts, artifices and devices, had exercised great control over Mr. Field, and that these notes and obligations were obtained by her undue influence. The checks and notes were presented by the Gorings to the banks, but payment was refused. Then the Gorings endeavored to negotiate the $20,000 note. The court granted injunctions against the Gorings restraining them from disposing of the obligations until the hearing of the bill on its merits. The same complainants have also filed another bill in chancery, alleging that the Gorings obtained the title to certain parts of real estate owned by Mr. Field by the same means used to obtain the obligations noted in the first bill. This bill says the property was obtained without any consideration whatever, and "though undue, improper, and unconscionable influences and fraudulent practices and devices used and exercised" over Mr. Field.

The atorneys for the Field estate have track of twenty conveyances made directly or indirectly to Mrs. Goring. The property aggregates a value of about $50,000. This is exclusive of the notes and checks held by the Gorings. The acquaintance between Field and Mrs. Goring dates back five years. Mrs. Goring is about 45 years of age. Her home on Montreal street, is furnished in great style, and the entire family lived in great luxury. The will of Mr. Field was filed for probate this afternoon, leaving his entire estate to the widow, (barring, of course, what he had given away or sold) and after her death to the children. The estate is worth about one million dollars. A peculiar clause of the will says: "in regard to our dear children, the cost gift I can confer upon and daughter sets up that the Gorings hold Mr. Field's note her neighbors and devotion to charitable work." The revelation of these suits has astonished the community, for they mean that Mr. Field practically lived a double

MRS. LANGTRY'S ILLNESS.

A Painful Surgical Operation for Nasal Catarrh Performed.

New York special: Is Shakespeare prov ing too much for our female stars? Two prominent exponents of the leading tragic roles have become prostrated during the week. Miss Mary Anderson succumbed to the strain of depicting Hermione's wrongs and Perdita's youthful abandon after a lengthy season, and has been compelled to rest for a time. Mrs. Langtry is the latest to succumb, and is now confined to her home in West Twenty-third street. Her doctor has absolutely forbidstreet. Her doctor has absolutely forbidden her to play out the week at the People's theater where she is billed. For some time past Mrs. Langtry has been suffering with a catarrhal affection. About two weeks ago it became so serious that she was utterly unable to breathe through her nose. Despite the great inconvenience she was compelled to continue acting, the result being that she became extremely nervous. Her trouble was greatly increased by her trip west, where the alkaline dust seriously aggravated the disease. It is a remarkable fact that the throats of English people are particularly affected by it, and in some parts of the west, particularly St. Paul and St. Louis, great numbers are suffering with throat trouble in a greater or less degree caused by this irritating dust. After discussing the matter with her regular physician and consulting with Dr. Curtis, the throat specialist, it was deemed advisable that the latter should perform an operation. Accordingly on Sunday, March 3, Mrs. Langtry underwent the ordeal. The affected part was treated with cocaine, and Dr. Curtis then performed what is termed the deviation of the septum, which caused total occlusion of the nostrils. The completion of the enlarged soft tissues by chromic acid. This takes some time and is extremely painful. The diseased tissues come away in the form of slough caused by the action of the acid. Cocaine offords but little relief, as its effect is only temporary, while the action of the acid is slow and prolonged. The doctor fears that unless great care is taken Mrs. Langtry will succumb to an attack of nervous prostration, with which she is at present seriously threatened. Throughout the entire affair Mrs. Langtry has acted in the plucklest way. The operation was enthe entire affair Mrs. Langtry has acted in the pluckiest way. The operation was en-dured with Spartan tortitude, and her at-tempts to keep faith with the public have been little less than heroic. It will be im-possible for Mrs. Langtry to act the re-mainder of the week, her physician having ordered absolute rest and quiet.
